INTRODUCTION

Amendments to the 035.051.01 Language and Literature (Spanish) Academic Professional Program were caused by the need to coordinate its previous version, approved by the decision of the Academic Council as of 27.02.2017, minutes 4 (order 348 as of 26.05.2017), with a new Standard for Higher Education for specialty 035 Philology for the first (bachelor) level of higher education (Ministry of Education and Science of Ukraine, order № 869 as of 20.06.2019), and also due to some factors after the program's implementation (its curriculum, subject syllabi and internships) throughout 2017-2018, 2018-2019, 2019-2020 academic years.

According to the Standard for Higher Education for specialty 035 Philology for the first (bachelor) level of higher education, the following parts of the curriculum were updated:

- Program general outline (specialty code and title, subject description);
- Graduate's competencies
- Program educational outcomes
- Graduates' attestation forms

While implementing the curriculum, designing syllabi, practicing in internships and final attestation the guarantor's group got feedback from professors, teachers, internship companies and employers' enterprises, expressing guidance for improvements and the Program optimization. After discussing them at meetings of different formats the team has authorized several alterations to the 035.051.01 Language and Literature (Spanish) Academic Professional Program. They involve several managerial specificities, which help achieve professional competencies, and are listed below:

- credit optimization for different academic components;
- semester final assessment;
- improved titles for academic subjects, to comply with their content.

In view of the above-mentioned factors the university adopted this updated version for the Academic Professional Program.

APPENDIX 1 – ELECTIVE PARTS OF THE PROGRAM

According to Article 62 in part one of item 15 in the Act of Ukraine On Higher Education, students can choose subjects from a list of elective components, as regulated at Borys Grinchenko Kyiv University in order 642 as of 25.11.2016.

1. Elective block "Second foreign language: English"

This elective block allows to enhance the competencies of philology as a major, by expanding knowledge of foreign languages, communicative skills and professional interaction in the chosen language; it presupposes fluent reading and full understanding of all texts types and discourse, analysis of literature in the original, any critical and linguistic analysis of texts and their interpretation, and also improved linguo-didactic skills of teaching the chosen language as a foreign one.

The choice of electives takes place during the first year of studies. After the choices new groups are formed, and the sessions start with Year 2 and last for three years. Every semester offers different types of exams and credits, as indicated in the structure-logical sequence. A school practice (professional internship) is offered, too. Thus, by the end of the Program Students know English at B2 level. The Program presupposes an additional final attestation – Qualification exam in the chosen language.

The graduates, who comply with the professional qualification conditions (from Part III and here) besides the major qualification “Teacher of Spanish language and literature”, will also acquire professional qualification in the second language: “Teacher of Spanish and English language and literature for a secondary education institution”.

The matrices below show general and professional competencies, as well as the learning outcomes for this block of subjects.
